Journal for the Advancement of Performance Information and Value Call for Papers

The Journal for the Advancement of Performance Information and Value (JAPIV) invites researchers and authors to submit original research, review articles and papers pertaining to the built environment.

Performance information is a key contributor to process improvements and the development of the industry by providing quantitative and qualitative impetus. The industry can be defined as the built environment, the delivery of services, goods, and information technology. The value in performance information can be seen in the application of the information to: identify a challenge, improve or refine a process, and initiate change. The value can be perceived at numerous levels and entities within an organization or across a project.

Topics to be addressed may include but are not limited to the following:

- Supply chain
- Best Practices
- Change management
- Efficiency
- Performance metrics
- Value-based procurement
- Organisational management
- Risk Management
- Approaches to the delivery of projects

Background

The journal seeks to be a source for documented performance information and to serve as a guidepost for lessons learned, best practices, and the proliferation of performance based value models in the international built environment. The JAPIV seeks to engage researchers and practitioners alike.

The journal is open access, with all current and previous issues distributed online

Previous issues of JAPIV can be downloaded here.
The journal is associated with CIB W117.
